There was a lady going around the village asking everyone..

Where is my baby? Did you see my baby?
She couldn't understand why they were laughing.
Finally she went to a sadhu. She said...

My dear sir, this world is so bad. I can understand why you became a sadhu, because this world is so bad. I asked for my baby and they were all laughing.
You go to the lake and look inside. Your baby is in there.
What? He jumped in the lake?

You just go to the lake and look inside.
So she went to the lake and looked down, and she saw that the baby was sleeping on her shoulder.
So then she found out, that is why they were laughing, because the baby was on her shoulder.
